

FLOOD DANGER HERE BELIEVED TO BE OVER

RIVER REMAINS AT HIGH MARK, WITH DROP PREDICTED
NO CHANGE IN CONDITIONS HERE SINCE WEDNESDAY.

Rock river at Janesville has held steady since Wednesday afternoon and, while the water remains at the highest mark in 19 years, flood danger is believed avoided. The river, Thursday, still stood at 41 1/2 inches at the fourth avenue dam of the Janesville Electric company. Reports from Indian Ford are that there has been no change there.

A block of ice shoved its way out of Lake Koshkonong, Wednesday night, but was so honeycombed by the time it went over the Indian Ford dam it crumbled. The condition of the ice indicates there is hardly any possibility of a jam occurring.

Danger About Over

Ordinarily when the river reaches its highest freshet point in the spring, it remains stationary for three days and then recedes. Wednesday being the third day at the same level it is taken here that the flood danger is passing. Only a storm would send the water higher again, it is said by A. W. Woodworth, chief engineer of the electric company. There are no indications of anything but fair weather for the next few days.

Land Is Inundated

Between Janesville and Beloit the flats near the river are covered for a distance of 700 yards to the interurban railway bank. The tracks are so high, however, there is no chance of them being covered. The interurban "subway" south of Janesville was pumped free of water by Wednesday night.

No Trouble At School

Height of the water in the river is no trouble whatever at the new high school and, as the height is setting records, no trouble in the future is expected from this source. When the site was chosen, there were many criticisms because of the location, the objectors arguing that high water would come into the building and even saying it would make the foundations sink or shift.

Dr. Campbell, director of the observatory and president-elect of the University of California, announced he had consulted with the city fathers on the result of observations based on photographs of the sun taken by him and a corps of assistants during a total eclipse at Wallal, on the northwest coast of Australia, Sept. 21, last.

Einstein Theory Upheld

The undertaking was known as the W. H. Cracker eclipse expedition of Lick observatory and the University of California.

For the first time in 25 years on the date of observation, the day was clear.

Twelve photographic plates brought back to the observatory and afford excellent basis of measurement.

Dr. Campbell said this accident happened at the termination of a boisterous party.

Investigation into the death of young man was begun by local officials.

WITH THE FARMERS

Farm Bureau Official Information

TEST PETITIONS ARE CALLED IN

Believe enough signers have been obtained to put over plan.

All petitions circulated by the Rock County Farm Bureau and other farm organizations calling for an area or county-wide test to eradicate bovine tuberculosis have been ordered in by the executive committee. The petitions should be sent to H. C. Remmington, Janesville, at once, for checking before being filed with the state authorities.

No definite information has been obtained of the exact percentage of signers. Rock County Assurance is sure that it will easily exceed the 61 per cent required by law.

Farmers are watching the development of the so-called Shuman bill providing for the test. No tests will be made unless ample funds are provided by the legislature to pay the indemnity.

Members of the Farm Bureau executive committee voted to purchase a scale and equipment for testing cream. The bureau now offers free milk tasting service and will do the same for cream.

The time limit on the essay contest has been extended two weeks.

The next move of the county bureau will be to send out new rules throughout Rock county on livestock shipping associations. A committee to make recommendations for enforcing new rules on the co-operative shipping of stock was named at the executive committee meeting.

BUILDING-LOAN ASS'N GROWING

Season of 1923 Promises to Exceed Two Previous Years Combined.

The first three months' business done by the Jefferson Building Association, established this year, exceeded what was made this year than in the two previous years it has been in business, according to J. P. Hammelund, secretary.

Mr. Hammelund said that in the three months' loans completed totaled $25,000 and others being negotiated for and which will be closed by June amount to $30,000, making a total of $55,000 as compared with $40,700 for the entire year of 1922.

At least five new homes will be built in Janesville as a result of the loans. Other loans are to pay off mortgages on the building loan plan, which many find more satisfactory, it is on the monthly payment basis.

RACINE DAIRYMEN THREATEN BOYCOTT

For the reason Racine passed the day-light savings law farmers who own the city with mills are threatening a boycott refusing to deliver to the dealers in the city. All the farmers of Racine county are opposed to the plan, with the dairymen taking the lead.

Glee Club Boasts Many Specialties

If clever specialties make an attractive solo concert program, that to be presented by Lawrence college men's glee club in its concert, Friday night, at the Methodist church, under the auspices of that church promises to be one of the finest of its kind ever presented here. The object is not so much in number as in finish and real success of presentation.

Perhaps the foremost of the soloists coming with the club is Winfield Alexander, blind tenor, who will present two numbers. His numbers are always among the most popular on the program.

George Mechallan, baritone, is also a soloist with the club and will sing two numbers. He has a technique characterized by critics as unusual in a college singer.

A soloist who has recently been added is John Phillips, tenor.

Several numbers will be sung by a quartet composed of John Phillips, first tenor, Harold McMillan, second tenor, Ellsworth Stiles, first bass, and Kenneth Goodrich, second bass.

An interesting addition to this year's program will be two violin solos by Harry Sisson.

BURDICK REPORTED RESTING COMFORTABLY

Dr. A. L. Burdick, injured Monday night when struck by a street car on West Milwaukee street, is resting comfortably at Methodist hospital where he is confined. He suffered scalp wounds which are not serious.

Mouat Favors Small Colleges

An instructive talk on "Higher Education" was given at the second high school assembly, Wednesday morning, by Dr. O. Mouat, local educational official. He said as many mistakes were made in young people going away to school as by staying away and unless college will broaden the viewpoint which he declared is the main object of a higher education it is useless to waste any time and money for a college education. He also spoke on the political advantages of small colleges.

It was another of the series of talks on this subject sponsored by the Rotary club. The junior assembly was entertained with a talk from the Rev. W. G. Clegg, explaining the object of the drive now being conducted and asking for aid.

At the senior assembly Friday, the moving picture "Making a Newspaper," showing the Janesville Gazette in action, will be shown.

McGOWAN INVITES TEACHER STUDENTS TO SEE BOARD ACT

Addressing the training school students, Wednesday, Attorney E. D. McGowan, recalled many incidents of his high school days which were spent in the building which now houses the training school. He told the students that the site was once a cemetery.

He explained the work of the county board, and told how the township idea grew out of the life and needs of the New Englanders and of how the county idea sprang from this as the towns and communities grew. He said the pioneers of New England who came to Wisconsin, organized on the same plan. He defined the county board as an elected body and said the board could be called the business board of directors. The Rock county board is composed of 46 members, who serve for three year terms and receive $4 a day for their actual services. Mr. McGowan told of meetings of the board, selection of committees and the work.

An invitation to attend the comty board meeting next week that they may gain a clearer idea of how the board functions was extended to the students by Mr. McGowan, who in conclusion said that good citizenship is a sacred duty and that as teachers each one should strive his best to train for a good, intelligent citizenship. The primary function of the school is to train the citizens of tomorrow and thus to perpetuate democracy.

HIT 40 PCT. MARK IN Y. W. CANVASS

$1,900 Is Raised Second Day, Bringing Total to $3,805.

Y. W. C. A. canvassers secured $1,905 from 179 contributors during the second day's drive. This is $5 in excess of the amount raised Tuesday, and brings the total so far to $3,805. The goals are $8,265.

As of the second day, doing good work and according to Mrs. Sidney Bostwick, campaign chairman, great credit is due to those who get subscriptions from a large number of small givers, even though the total amount reported by their team is less than that raised by other teams.

"We must have hundreds of contributions, as well as gifts from those able to give $25 and upwards," said Mrs. Bostwick. "To secure these smaller subscriptions means a great deal of work on the part of canvassers and does not result in large totals, but it does indicate the sort of interest essential to the work of the Y. W. C. A. One of the best things about the drive so far, is the number of employed girls and women who have responded by giving to the full extent of their ability."

We are very proud of this response."

Pious Spirit Shown

Miss Ruth Jeffries, chairman of the finance committee, expressed appreciation of the large number of women who she said are participating right on the job of canvassing and asking for more cards after having solicited the list of persons originally assigned them.

"We haven't had anything like this spirit of cheerful and willing service exhibited by so many workers in previous drives," said Miss Jeffries. "With 160 loyal workers on the job every day, five days a week, we haven't had a doubt of our ability to put the drive over successfully."

Team totals for Wednesday are as follows:

Team No. 1—Miss Bess Allen, captain, $100.

Team No. 2—Mrs. George Allen, captain, $85.

Team No. 3—Miss Esther Behling, captain, $74.

This Is Worth While Here at Home.

This week the Y. W. C. A. is asking for contributions of $6,000 to spurn that institution for the coming year. It is hard to select a more necessary part of the life of Janesville than the Y. W. C. A. It was established through the efforts of the women of the city after many years had been spent in futile talking about it and the men of the city had practically thrown up their hands. Then the women did it.

The Y. W. C. A. provides a central rallying place for girls. To look over the budget of the association is to be convinced that every dollar is spent with judicious care. It goes along so smoothly that it seems that it has always been a part of the life of Janesville. Its activities have been far-reaching for good. We send many thousand dollars away from Janesville each year for foreign missions and to aid the boys and girls of unchristian and pagan lands. But first Janesville and our own splendid institution should have the call. And the week should surely close with the necessary funds assuring the continuance of the Y work another year, in the treasury.

If the legislature wants to take a real crack at the rich let it demand licenses to swear on the golf links.

Victory for the Booze Ring.

A real victory for the whiskey and beer ring in Wisconsin came Wednesday when the Sachtjen bill, making it possible for the moonshiners to manufacture his poison with very little or no molestation, was engrossed by the assembly. As usual the poor old constitution of the United States and the constitution of Wisconsin were dragged in, that a crime might be committed in their names. For, over 40 years we have had a search and seizure statute in Wisconsin defining for what particular offenses this may be invoked. The Severson law added one more crime to the list already named in that statute. But the governor said in his message that this was "a menace which hung over every home." It has been hanging for 40 years and his discovery was apparently greatly delayed. Of course he did not mean that in all its extravagance since there are several hundred thousand homes in Wisconsin where, in a lifetime there never would be the breath of suspicion that illicit dealing in or making of liquor, was even attempted. The home when used for performance of a criminal act is no more sacred than a field or a public highway. The mauldin tears over the sacredness of the home in connection with the moonshiner and bootlegger is wasted wind. The summoning of the constitution, the juggling of words about the home was only camouflage to cover the real purpose of the bill—to make the Severson law ineffective and win a victory for the liquor interests. Somehow, after reading the governor's message and the speeches of the governor's sponsors in the assembly, there comes to mind the large advertisements of the anti-prohibition forces in the primary campaign notifying the people that the governor was on the side of the wet interests. The Sachtjen bill and the governor's message appear to be making good for that aid and assistance given in the campaign.

The Volstead law set the example for the Severson law in its search and seizure clause. In the United States senate it has been accepted as a fact that the Volstead law has the support of the supreme court in its provisions. Attack after attack has been made on the search and seizure clause as a violation of the Bill of Rights. Stanley, of Kentucky and Reed, of Missouri, have been the leaders in this. But they have arrived nowhere since no one has dared attempt to make this directly a court issue. Take it from the Volstead law and the prohibition act would be null and void. That is the only way the law could be enforced successfully. It has been used in the last few weeks to seize several millions of dollars worth of illicit whisky in large cities. The Severson law is the governor's law. He signed the law with the search and seizure clause in it. It is remarkable that his changed attitude is coincident with the support of the liquor and beer ring in the state. Every liquor lobbyist at Madison was for the repeal. They were deeply concerned over the "sacredness of the home"—these representatives of liquor interests and breweries. They were tremendously impressed with the crime which the state of Wisconsin was committing against the constitution of the United States. But they did not say that it was a part of the nation-wide conspiracy that all liquor laws should be attacked

Trade in Flapper Weapons Booms

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—The flapper is keeping the drug-store and the chemical preparation industry busy, according to the latest official statistics on the Census Bureau, while the American people are turning away from the time-honored patent medicines and druggists' preparations.

The census bureau has just completed the compilation of its figures on the census of manufactures in 1922. It has three general classifications covering the basic business of drugstores: druggists' preparations, patent medicines and perfumery and cosmetics, called the weapons of the flapper—is the only one which shows an increase.

The value of the perfumery and cosmetics produced in 1922 amounted to $72,500,000 according to the official figures, compared with $69,000,000 in 1919, the last census period for manufacturing statistics. This is an increase of 22 percent. In 1914 perfume and cosmetics output was only $18,000,000. Thus, from 1914 to 1922 the percentage increase in this decorative business reached the astounding figure of 329. These figures relate only to the American made products. If the imported perfumes were added, many more millions would be accounted for. Out of our hundred million population, there are about twenty-five million women of an age likely to employ the beautifying or rejuvenating agencies of perfumes and cosmetics. This means that each one of these women spends about $3 a year on such products. This is probably an inaccurate method of figuring as it assumes that practically all women between the ages of 16 or 18 and 35 years use cosmetics. In all probability, deductions of those who do not employ these products would bring the number of users down to around ten or fifteen millions, making a proportionately greater per capita expenditure on this sort of decorative adornment—say $6 or $7.

The rapid increase in the business is attributed largely to the age of the flapper, the youthful ruse who very early in life assumes the manners and follies of the woman of society. The census figures prove that the lipstick and the powder puff are very decidedly in the ascendant.

In 1914 there were only 376 factories making perfumes and cosmetics; in 1921 it took 422 such establishments to fill the requirements. In 1914 the industry employed only 5,421 while in 1921 there were 9,367 persons engaged. Apparently, mildly, needs more powder for her nose, more rouge for her lips and more perfume for her bracelets in the winter, the season of theater-going and indoor parties than in the warmer months of November is known to be the month of maximum employment in the industry. In that month extra employees make the powder fly in preparation for the winter trade.

In 1914 the industry paid only $3,700,000 in salaries and wages; in 1921 this figure had risen to $11,200,000.

The old fashioned apothecary who filled prescriptions is finding business declining, according to the census figures and must make up through sales of cosmetic and perfume what he used to earn at the drug counter. The business is better than it was in 1914 but has fallen off heavily since 1919.

The figures show that the value of druggists' preparations in 1914 was $48,000,000; in 1919 $114,000,000 while in 1921 it was down to $81,000,000. This might be explained by a statement that the people were buying patent medicines more generally but apparently this explanation does not hold, for patent medicines show a seven-percent drop from 1919 to 1921.

In 1914 patent medicines and compounds were valued at $102,000,000. By 1919 they had reached the high point of $121,000,000 but in 1921 they were down to $75,000,000. In 1914 there were 1334 establishments engaged in their manufacture. By 1919 these had increased to 1525 but in 1921 had dropped to 1437. The persons engaged in the industry numbered 25,627 in 1914; $1,070 in 1919 and were reduced to 22,634 in 1921.

In this the industry presents quite an extraordinary situation in that fewer persons were employed in 1921 than in 1914 although the business was 72 per cent greater. It shows a sharp effort at retrenchment in the industry made necessary apparently by the decline in the business. Wages, however, were substantially increased so that practically as much money was paid out in 1921 as in 1919. In 1919, $13,748,000 was paid to 31,770 employees and in 1921, $13,684,000 was paid to only 22,635 employees.

However much the drug business declines in the amount of money it attracts, the corner drug store is doing well on its soda fountain. More money was spent in 1921 at the soda fountains than at the prescription or patent medicine counters and the various industries which serve the fountain did equally well. There were declines in 1921 compared with the high point in 1919, but not as great as in the medicine end of the drug store business.

Soda and mineral waters were produced to the value of $115,000,000 in 1921. This was a reduction of 5 per cent from the high point of $135,000,000 in 1919 but a 93 per cent increase over the production of only $8,000,000 worth in 1914. Undoubtedly, prohibition had much to do with the big increase in the soda fountain business between 1914 and 1919 for 25 states went dry in that period.

The soda fountain apparatus business showed a steady increase. It amounted to only $8,500,000 in 1914, to $15,100,000 in 1919, and to $15,400,000 in 1921. There was a 1.5 per cent gain in 1921 over 1919 and a 7.5 per cent gain over 1914.

The flavoring extract business dependent on the soda fountains for most of its sales, amounted in 1921 to $44,000,000. In 1919 it had reached the high point of $46,000,000 so the 1921 figure represents a decline of 6 per cent. However, the 1921 business was 187 per cent above the 1914 business which amounted to only $15,000,000.

All these figures show that the old fashioned drugstore is a thing of the past. The modern pharmacy could close up its prescription and patent medicine counters, throw the mortar and pestle on the trash heap and do a big business in selling perfumes and cosmetics to the flappers, feeling sure that the more handsome they succeeded in making their appearance, the oftener they would bring them in to patronize the soda fountain. With the rouge-counter and the sofa fountain, a good enough business for anybody could be kept going.

and, wherever possible, effective enforcement should be broken down and the way cleared for the return of the organized business of the whiskey and beer rings. That is what the Sachtjen bill means here in Wisconsin, camouflage it as one may, and that is the sole reason. If that be reason, for its presentation to the legislature.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE PIONEER.

Let the world think what may, I've seen a light—
I have been shown the way to what is right.
To dare for truth, until the truth be known,
I shall press on, in spite of the sneer—
It is my lot to play the pioneer.

The many cannot know and do not see
What I have found and is so clear to me,
Yet to the light I have I must be true.
Although the world may mock at all I do,
One must go first to make the pathway clear—
God help me now to play the pioneer.

The world has laughed and sneered at men before,
Whom now it kneels to honor and adore;
Who breaks with custom shall by men be cursed,
Rough is the road for him who travels first,
Yet one must brave the death the many fear—
God help me now to play the pioneer.

THE VIEWPOINT.

"I care not for riches,
Neither silver nor gold."
I sang that in youth
When the spirit was bold;
When the spirit was staid,
Was nectar to me,
And welcomed the storms
On Life's troublous sea.
But now, I'm along
And I'm changing the song.
In midst of the struggle
That goes to the strong.
As to gold and silver
I'm having nothing left
To welcome quite frankly
A little of both."

An Italian was on the witness stand in a New York court the other day, and he talked as fast as his knowledge of English would permit.

Looking down at the official stenographer, the witness noticed for the first time that his testimony was being reduced to writing. (The stenographer was doing his best to get it all.) The witness thereupon began talking faster than ever, until finally he burst forth:

"Don't write so fast. I can't keep up!"

Then there is the gentleman on Long Island who had the Swedish hired girl who could do everything except cook and clean house. She asked him for a recommendation and, after sleeping over the matter, he wrote the following character, which she thankfully received and used:

"To whom it may concern: This is to certify that Hilda Svenson has been in my employ nearly a month and I take great pleasure in saying that she is the tallest hired girl we have ever had."

Girlof Ghost Mountain

By J. ALLAN DUNN

SYNOPSIS. Peter Sheridan, young New York lawyer, practices in Arizona because of threatened tuberculosis. Chico, east of his ranch, is near Ghost Mountain on which he and his foreman, Tom, live, though, however, to be a ghost. At Metzal, the nearby town, Hollister, rustler and bad man, attacks a Chinaman who resists him. Tom, who has been working at the ranch, later Sheridan is aware that Ghost Mountain is inhabited by a young woman and a giant Swedish maid. Tom's Indian friends are going to raid the place. Peter and Tom plan to rescue the women.

"The slimy lady," muttered Sheridan. She spoke his own tongue, the language of culture. He fancied that she had recognized him also, that it had served as a password and countersign.

"Will you gentlemen come up? You started us a little, but I am sure there is nothing for us to be afraid of."

"Plucky as a nestin' wren," murmured Jackson. Then, aloud, "No, there isn't nothin' to be afraid of. We're harmless as Martin's."

The girl, she was only that, gave a laugh that was like a silvery clinking of tiny bells but the pair was conscious of the dim shape or the bigger woman, suspicious protective, holding a rifle ready.

"We'd like to have our horses when we could fit them," said Sheridan. "We heard a mountain lion on the way up. They might get restless."

"There is a shed back of the house," she answered. "Our own horses are there. There is plenty of room."

That was a girl of her type doing it grew on Sheridan as they put away their mounts in the shed, a substantial affair built of rough logs, like the house, and roughly divided into box stalls that were padded down with raw twigs. The wonder of finding Gunnie Metzal upon faded beside this new riddle. The "slimy lady" belonged against a background of mahogany highboys, old china, arid bookshelves and an Adams' mantel. He had a swift picture of her coming down a spiral staircase of white treads and slender white spindles, her white

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonsfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsified cocoanut oil in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, non-frizzy, fluffy and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

Miss B. Aiken Tells How Cuticura Healed Eczema

"When I was about fourteen years of age my face, arms and scalp broke out with eczema. It started with little pimples and blisters which spread rapidly. I could not stand any clothing on my arms, and my face was disfigured. My scalp itched and burned so that I could not sleep, and my hair became dry and lifeless and fell out in handfuls."

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a sample. It helped me so I purchased more, and after using these boxes of Soap and three boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss BURNS Aiken, Lyndon, Kansas.

NERVOUS WOMAN COMPLETE WRECK

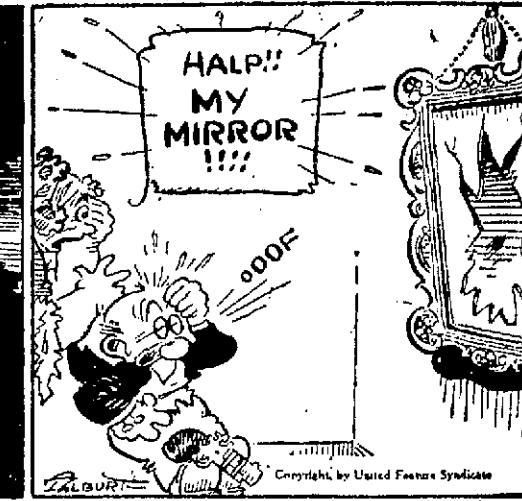

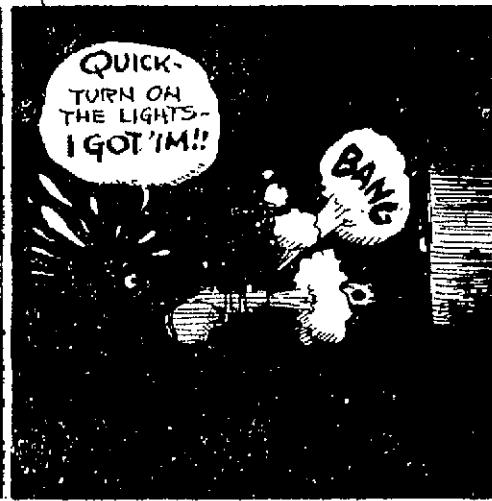

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Indianapolis, Ind.—"Now I want to tell you just what induced me to take your medicine. It seemed that I had some kind of weakness so that I could not carry a child its full time. The last time I was troubled this way I had a nervous breakdown and was a complete wreck. The doctor thought I would not live, and if I did I would never be well and strong again. But I told them I was going to get well, that I was not going to die just then. My husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took six bottles of it. I soon got strong again and had three more children. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound ever since, and if you could see me now you would think I had always been well!"—Mrs. MARY F. HERRICK, 234 Detroit St., Indianapolis, Ind.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire reproductive system, so that it may work in every respect effectively as nature intended.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man, twenty-one years of age and am engaged to a girl of 18. Her name is Alice Junior. Is it proper for me to ask this girl's father's consent? If so, how should I start the conversation so as to ask him? What is the proper thing for me to do and say to him?

DUD.

You will find it easier to tell the girl's father of your engagement than you think. Simply break into the truth when you are going to him and say that you want to marry his daughter and she has given her consent. Most fathers are very agreeable on such an occasion, shake hands with the future son-in-law, and start at once to be a good friend.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am eighteen years old and married. My husband is six years my senior. We have a baby girl nine months old. My husband says he loves both of us, but says he is tired of married life. He says before we were married he was never "broke."

My father and brother stay with us most of the time and my husband doesn't like this. He says if we are going to stay, he will leave. I have told my father several times he would have to get another place to stay, but still he doesn't listen. He isn't able to work and we are not able to keep them. He has brothers and sisters and a daughter. He doesn't like my husband and talks about him even though we are out. We are not together different when they are not with us. My father never comes around when we are out of work, but as soon as we get a job, he is with us.

We haven't much to keep house with. I keep things clean and try to be neat myself and keep the baby clean. I never go anywhere except on Sunday, and then it is out to his mother's. I have asked several times to go to town on Saturday afternoon.

Waffles—One and three-quarter cups flour (large cup) three teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one cup milk (sweet), two egg yolks, one tablespoon melted butter, sugar and sift dry ingredients. Add milk and gradually add yolks until beaten and well mixed. Let the beaten whites of the eggs stand for 15 minutes. Heat waffle iron to 450°. Put waffle iron in oven. When hot, make seven large waffles.

Floating Island—In case other desserts fail, try this old-timer. Make a rich, boiled custard in a double boiler, using the beaten yolks of six fresh eggs, a quart of rich milk, a quarter of a saltspoon of sugar and sugar to taste. A custard is a trifle thicker than cream, right when the spoon is enough to coat the back of the spoon when just at the boiling point it is done. If cooked until it boils a custard is apt to separate. Remove from the fire and add a teaspoon of vanilla flavoring, turn into a dish and set to cool.

Meanwhile, beat the egg whites very stiff adding slowly the yolks of twelve eggs, whipped carefully and a few drops of vanilla. Drop the mixture by the tablespoon onto a very lightly buttered baking plate and cook it in a medium over a delicate brown, letting it dry off like a meringue. When done, lift with a spatula and lay on top of the custard and set to chill. This is a delicious old-fashioned dessert and one not often seen in modern day cooking. The food the mother eats has some stamped, addressed envelope.

Friday—Cheerful Rainy Days

by Edna Kent Forbes

Women who have been interested in the beauty chats for the young mother have written to me and asked what to do after the baby comes. First of all, she should not let doctors advise her that stay in bed until you feel quite able to get up and go about. Most doctors insist upon three weeks in bed, and one week devoted to gradual getting up—five minutes in a chair, then 15 minutes in a chair, then a walk to the other side of the room and so on until strength comes on. Some women are advised to take to the water, which is a tragic pity, and some are too impatient to do so, and a few don't need so much rest.

Meanwhile, while in bed, take exercise. This can be done from the second week until you are on your feet again. While lying flat, raise one leg straight in the air, then the other leg, then both legs. At first you can do this in a sitting position, then in a standing position. When you are strong enough, lie on the floor, feet under some heavy bit of furniture and hands on the hips. Raise yourself thus to a sitting position and do the leg exercises, too.

This is the thing that will strengthen all those weak and stretched abdominal muscles and make you as slim and neat as you were before.

After you are up and walk, bending exercise, standing up and arm and chest exercises, too. If you grew round shoulder while you did not feel well, be patient, and persist. Any exercise can give you back your slender, youthful grace. Corsets, at least some sort of girdle, you must wear for a time, even though you now believe you are well again.

LATEST MARKET REPORTGRAIN

Chicago Review. Chicago—The grain market was quiet, with little change in price Wednesday during the early dealings. Inland in Oklahoma and prospects of moisture made some movement southwest but sold with little influence. Buyers, however, were ready absorbed by commission houses and the market was fair from being "in line." The opening, while ranging from $1.22 1/2 and July $1.22 1/2, was followed by a slight further decline and then by transient rallies that in some cases lifted the market well above Wednesday's level.

Subsequently, sellers became scarce, times and July and September touched a peak. The fact, however, that buying was up nearly seven cents in a week led to a reaction. The close was unsettled at $1.25 net decline, July $1.21 1/2 and July $1.22 1/2.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat. Trading was on a liberal scale, opening at $1.22 1/2, the advance, $1.23 1/2, the corn market recovered to about Wednesday's latest figure. Oats started a shade to 4¢ off, May 40¢, June 41¢, July 41¢. Foreign exchanges were unchanged. Gold sterling was unchanged at $4.55 1/2 and French francs yielded one point to 45¢.

The closing was irregular. Further liquidation in the high priced shares induced some selling in other quarters and late in the day.

Provisions were firm in line with no values. Chicago Table:

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—their no need of having a swollen complexion, wrinkles under your eyes—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a well-known physician in China, perfected a vegetable compound coated with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about the natural buoyancy and health you should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 25c.

REQUIRE 15 TEAMS TO SHOVE TOURNEY OVER WITH PUNCH

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCIARO

Unless entries for the city bowling tournament flow in with more "pep" Thursday than they have been coming, the meet will have less than 50 teams competing. This is the rather disappoing dope obtained Thursday morning and does not look good for Janesville.

Entries close at midnight Thursday. The entry committee sent out an urgent appeal for squads to show their colors and come in under the wire. The meet is a preparatory measure for the conduct of the state tourney here next year.

Jackknock 15 Teams

Entries may be made at the Chamber of Commerce, with George Gilman at the Parker Pen Plant or with Dr. S. F. Richards, 223 West Milwaukee street.

The until noon Thursday, only 35 teams were assured. That means 15 more are needed.

Doubles and singles are even more slow. Bowlers are evidently forgetting that Louis Levy has put up a beautiful gold medal to the winner of the all-events.

Handicappers to Meet

A special meeting of the handicappers for the meet will be held at the Chamber of Commerce at 8 a.m. Friday. There will be one handicapper for each entrant. This committee consists of E. C. Bowmen, A. Mead, "Billy" Hulse, Reno Koch and Curtis Grant.

The schedule for the meet will be published Saturday.

McMillan Will Inspect "Y" Here

Some action in regard to a new Y. M. C. A. building here, or at least an addition to the present structure, is looked forward to as a result of the visit of Neil McMillan, of the finance department of the International Olympic committee.

It seems McMillan had been going badly and one afternoon he went into the clubhouse and announced he had got rid of the umpire.

"Joe the league has got rid of the umpire or you've got to get rid of me," remonstrated McMillan. "He's terrible and the two of us can't get along in the same league."

"Well, Dave, then I guess you'll have to be the one to go," said Cantillon. "That umpire gave me a couple of runs the other day and you haven't given me one for a couple of weeks."

Thursday night, the R. F. B. was set out at 8:15 p.m. at the rink and the elated fans so that none of their scores would get out. The sound reports that each man looks great and they will be out to take the title home. The final practice for the team will be at the high school Friday night.

26 FROM COUNTY ELIGIBLE TO CAMP

Debating Revived at State School

The first public debate by the pupils of Wisconsin school for blind in many years was given Tuesday night by the pupils of the physical geography class, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Susan Murphy. The subject, "Resolved that the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway be made navigable for sea-going vessels," was treated comprehensively by both sides, demonstrating much thought and study devoted.

The decision was three to one in favor of the affirmative, which was defended by Lydia Wilson, Harvey Sorbenus and Louis Hendricks. The negative side was handled by Alton Davies, Emil Arndt and John Knape.

The affirmative was especially strong in their defense. All the debaters showed much latent talent.

Wednesday, Sup't. J. T. Hooper turned over the morning assembly period to the Girl Reserves, who gave an interesting program, demonstrating just what the organization means. Two especially interesting features were a reading, "Commencement" by Miss Gladys Matthe, president of the Girl Reserves corps of the school, and the explanation of the code by Sophie Peterson.

The Girl Reserves are to be continued, as is also their adviser, Miss Theresa Duda.

"Y" Gives Program at Big Plant

An innovation at the Chevrolet plant was instituted during the lunch period, Wednesday noon, when a program of music and speaking was presented before the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., with great success, that it is expected it will be repeated each Wednesday noon. Cornell selections were given by Harry Shurtliff, with Mrs. John Koller, playing the folding organ; and songs were sung by a male quartet composed of Herbert Kakuske, Joseph A. Steiner, Otto Wheeler, and John Koller.

A speech was given by the Rev. Frank T. Scribner on "What You Expect in Your Pay Envelope" and Secretary Steiner gave a few remarks on what they planned to do. They were invited back by the men.

The luncheon programs may be extended to five cents a mile.

"We want to fill the Rock county quota and those desiring to attend should therefore make application at once," said Mr. Ehrlinger.
